Flood Risk IN FOCUS

A Community Education Program

Dear Resident,

Flood mapping updates are underway for your community. If you live or own property in Lafayette County or Town of Mayo, we encourage you to learn what's being updated and how it may affect you and your property.

The flood risk mapping process shapes how flood risk is understood locally, so it's important for residents and property owners to know what's changing.

Attending the upcoming flood risk review meeting is a great way to get reliable information.

Across Florida, flood maps are revised periodically using updated data, technology, and science. These revisions help ensure flood risk information reflects current conditions, such as changes in rainfall patterns, land use, and water flow. This process has been in place for many years and is used nationwide.

At its core, this effort is about helping residents better understand their flood risk so they can be informed, prepared, and better equipped to protect what matters most.

That's why we're sharing clear, easy-to-understand information about what's being reviewed, what it means for your property, and where to get more information.

FLOOD RISK REVIEW MEETING

Residents of Lafayette County & Town of Mayo are invited to attend a flood risk review meeting to see what's being updated, understand what it could mean locally, and ask questions.

At the flood risk review meeting, you'll learn:

- What's being updated in your area
- What updated flood risk information could mean locally
- Where to find trusted information and ask questions

Date: Nov. 19th, 2026

Time: 5pm-7pm

Location: County Commissioner Meeting Room

120 W Main St.

Mayo FL 32066

Virtual Option (if available): NA

This flood risk review meeting is an informational session designed to provide clarity about flood mapping updates and answer general questions. No decisions are made at these meetings and the revised maps presented at the meetings are not final. The purpose of these meetings is to gather local input on the maps. Although we can't promise every concern will result in a revision, we'll evaluate all feedback thoroughly.

If you're unable to attend this meeting in your community, you can find additional meeting dates by county and additional flood risk information at FloodRiskinFocusFL.com. The site is updated as new meetings are scheduled.

If you have questions or need accommodations to participate, please contact Lafcobldg@gmail.com or 386-294-3611.

Sincerely,

Garret Land, Building Official, Flood Plain Administrator, Land Administrator
